

Practice makes perfect

Description

Hey, there,

I just watched a Hip Hop and Rap program at the new Museum of History and Industry at the south end of lake Union here in Seattle. I was with a couple of my grandchildren and their parents. It was an outing to honor Carsten who just turned 16 and has tried to do some Hip Hop moves. A team of 5 dancers performed and then the lead guy invited members of the audience to take a little lesson. He broke down the dance steps into segments of 8 and get them slowly making the moves. I couldn't take my eyes off him to see how the participants were doing. They performed again and I could identify the dance steps he was teaching in their fabulous and intricate presentation.

This video came across my desk today.

It demonstrates how practice makes perfect and the desired thing comes true. Anything you do in life, or want to do with a burning desire, you can achieve if you wholeheartedly practice. Over and over and over again without giving up; every waking moment. That's how people succeed. In dance, in other sports and in business. Practice makes perfect.

I can coach you to success in business, but I cannot practice for you. You must do that yourself. Your practice makes you perfect.

Be Well, Do Well and Keep Moving,

Betsy
